5 Content Creation Checklists

(Content Creation, Goal-Setting, Topic Generation, Brainstorming, Idea Starters)

PERMISSIONS:

- 1. You can sell the content as it is.*
- 2. You can give the content away as a lead magnet.*
- 3. You can convert some or all of the content into a free PDF to give away to build your list.*
- 4. You can use some or all of the content as ready-made blog posts.*
- 5. You can provide your clients with copies of the content as part of their coaching with you to give them valuable content.*
- 6. You can offer the content as a bonus or incentive to those who purchase another offer from you. (Or as an upsell or OTO.)*
- 7. You can convert some or all of the content into an email autoresponder series to promote the paid version or other products.*
- 8. You can add part or all of the content into your membership site for your members to access as one of their benefits.*
- 9. You can develop any other kind of free or paid offer from the content that will benefit your audience and your business.*
- 10. You can do almost anything with the content as if you wrote it yourself.*

RESTRICTIONS:

- You cannot pass on (sell, give or transfer) any kind of licensing rights to other people. This means that your subscribers, customers, and affiliates / partners may not have PLR rights, reprint / resell rights, giveaway rights or any other kind of distribution rights passed on to them for this content or anything created from it.
- You cannot claim authorship unless you've rewritten it to the point that it is unmistakably and uniquely yours. This means you can use the content as if you wrote it yourself, but you cannot claim that you wrote it yourself. You didn't write it. It's dishonest and unethical (and maybe illegal) to make people believe that you did. Instead, simply put your logo / branding onto the content along with "Presented by" your name or company / site name. For excerpts (ex. social media snippets, blog posts, reports), either publish the content unattributed or with a similar disclosure as mentioned above.
- You cannot mention Jimmy D. Brown as the source of the content (for various legal reasons) but you can include, "This content is based on original course curriculum developed by Jimmy D. Brown of Earncome.com and obtained through authorized licensing." This is not required, but feel free to do so if you want an added level of transparency with your audience.
- You cannot syndicate the content (IE articles), sell any portion as a Kindle ebook (which violates Amazon's TOS), or offer this content through an auction site. You agree to hold other licensees harmless for their usage of the content. I reserve the right to make final decisions on any usage of PLR content purchased from this site that is not specifically addressed in these terms to protect the value of the content and the investment of licensees (like you!), and my decision is final.
